

Knowledge—A Source of Power

Knowledge is power and with power comes opportunity. Knowledge, accompanied by power and opportunity, carries with it the awesome responsibility to use it in wise and just ways. It is a key force in the drive to achieve sustainable outcomes.

We are required to learn and gain experience in ways that help us acquire wisdom. This includes becoming better educated in order to improve our condition, stabilize our families, and entertain matters of importance that will help advance the human race.

Knowledge is of two kinds, subjective and objective. Both require continuous development in order to assist humankind to reach its full potential. ‘Subjective knowledge is the essence of a thing, and objective knowledge is concerned with the qualities of that thing. The essence of a thing is known through its qualities, otherwise, it remains unknown and its qualities remain hidden’.

We must continually strive to discover new knowledge and devise innovative ways to eliminate ignorance, safeguard humanity’s wellbeing, and create those pathways that will help ensure prosperous futures.
